How Does Your Web Designer Define a Website That Works? Business Articles | August 16 Nike Shox OZ D Womens , 2012

While there are many companies that promote their web design services, how do you know that they can create a website that works? Ask these questions.

To succeed in business today, you need to have a website that works, right? For most people, that's a pretty black and white necessity. However Nike Shox OZ D Mens , you may find yourself in a grey area trying to define exactly what it takes to make a website successful. Unfortunately, part of the confusion may be coming from the answers you're getting from your web designer.

For the average layperson, web design (also referred to as web development) is a broad term that covers all aspects of a website, including the visual elements, content development Nike Shox OZ D , the user interface experience, website optimization, and the backend technical nuts and bolts. As the customer, it helps if you can have all of your website development needs managed through one point of contact. However, you should be aware that a true web designer may only possess experience and skills for one aspect of web development Cheap Nike SB Shoes , for example graphic design, but lack true skills in the other technical areas or vice versa.

Does this last sentence leave you scratching your head saying, "Wait a second. If their true talent is graphic design, who's going to take care of the copy, the techie stuff Nike M2K Tekno For Sale , and make sure that the various SEO elements are in place so people can find my site?" Good question.

Creating a website that works requires developing many elements. While your current web designer may propose "managing" all development services for you, can they prove that they have the up-to-date knowledge and experience to create all of the aspects I mentioned above?

Here are four fundamental questions to ask.

1. Do they recommend you start by developing a strategy?

Having a website that effectively conveys your brand is critical. In a Web 2.0 world, your company's website, also known as a branding site, is a primary touch point for your target market. Because of its importance Cheap Nike M2K Tekno , you will obtain a better ROI from your site if you develop a strategy before you approve any design work.

You may define a website that works as one that attracts ideal prospects and converts them into customers. Whether you're investing in a new website or you're updating your current site, a true, holistic web specialist will recommend that you work together to develop a strategy with goals and tactics as the first step in the process. If they don't, they lack experience or prefer the trial-and-error approach.

2. How are they proposing that your website interacts with your overall marketing strategy?
